

Mary Fischer

I make what I do in clay because it pleases me and is what I am best at. Talking about the why and wherefore usually means taking liberty with the truth. What is true one day, may not be the next. What you swear by one day, you curse the next. As with things in nature, a state of flux is the rule and means all is well.